Founded in 1918, when General Harrison Gray Otis, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, bequeathed his Spanish-Moorish mansion to the city for “the advancement of the arts,” Otis College of Art and Design is L.A.’s first independent professional school of art. Otis prepares diverse students of art and design to enrich our world through their creativity, their skill, and their vision. Entering students spend their first year in Foundation, where they study art and design basics such as life drawing, color, composition, and form and space.
